YOUNG MAN PLANNED TO KILL HIMSELF IN CANYON

Threatening to commit suicide because he had become despondent over ill health and inability to get work he could do, has brought to light a story that has aroused the sympathy of the police, resulting in a new lease on life on the part of the victim of circumstances.

R. Francis Hawkins is the name of the young man, who was prevented from killing himself when the police were called to the scene by the frantic words of a woman over the phone. She said a young man was in the same rooming house at 2613 Grant avenue, and that he was threatening to kill himself.

Suffering of tuberculosis, Hawkins had left his home in Lakewood, Pa., to seek the healthful climate of the west. He disclosed in the pitiful story he told the police that he had never been away from home before he came to Ogdens. Soon he got short of funds. He wired home twice, but received no answer. He says his father is wealthy and, when he did not hear from him, he began to fear his father was dead. Never having been on his own resources, when he came to the end of his finances, he had no idea what to do. This is shown by the fact that there were two suit cases so full of expensive clothing that he could easily have gotten enough to live on for a time, had the thought occurred to him to dispose of them to one of the many pawn shops in Ogdens. He also has a trunk full of clothing, which would net him a neat sum.

When the officers discovered him, he had written a note and was getting ready to go to one of the nearby canyons, there to end his life. The note was as follows:

"To Whom It May Concern: I am 2300 miles from home. I have sent two telegrams there and got no response from my father. Perhaps he is dead. I have walked the streets till I am footsore, asking for work. 'No, nothing for you,' they say. I have not eaten anything since Sunday morning and am weary and faint. In the morning I am going to the canyons and end this awful life. I leave my suit case and bag to pay for room rent. Anything you don't want please burn it. In the name of God I write these few lines.

(Signed)

"R. FRANCIS HAWKINS."

As soon as the police had ascertained the state of affairs, they arranged for the young man to get something to eat and a place to sleep. Hawkins told them he had worked in a florist's shop in Chicago and wanted to do that work. Robert E. Wilson of the boy scouts organization was called in and through his efforts and those of the police, the young man was put to work in the Henderson green house.

FIRST OFFENDER AGAINST THE LIQUOR LAWS GIVEN NO LENIENCY BY JUDGE

Drinking whiskey and inviting some friends to do the same is expensive since the state of Utah went dry. That was the conclusion Dave Andrews reached this morning, after facing Judge Barker in the municipal court.

Andrews was arraigned on two counts, that of being drunk and that of giving liquor to other persons. On the first count, he was ordered to pay a fine of $50 and the second account he was fined $100. He admitted to the court that he would not try the same thing again.

He, with two companions, was arrested in a rooming house on lower Twenty-fourth street yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Kellher and Detective Moore, after the officers had followed one of the men. When arrested, the men had enough liquor to fill a suit case.

The three, Andrews, A. Smith and William J. Frank, were brought to the station. Andrews exonerated the other two.

When brought into court, Andrews pleaded guilty to the two charges. Attorney A. Sneddon made an eloquent plea for the man. He said that he had known Andrews, in Logan, when he resided there and could testify that his reputation was of the best. He also said that the offense was due to the fact that Andrews was unacquainted with the law.

Judge Barker, in passing the sentence, made the statement that in his belief, the only way to stop the liquor traffic, was to prosecute all offenders vigorously, as in that way they would learn to fear the law. He said that if leniency was shown, the first thing that would happen would be an overwhelming of the courts with prosecutions for violations of the liquor laws.

"The courts are made for the protection of the people," he said, "and if the courts do not uphold those laws, how can they protect them? I, for one, intend to deal vigorously with all violations of the new dry law for in this way only can the law be enforced."

This is the first public utterance Judge Barker has made as to his view of enforcing the new dry laws. He was very emphatic in making clear the stand he will take on all cases that come before him.

CITY OFFICIALS ARE INVESTIGATING A PROPOSED SPUR

For the purpose of securing thorough information regarding the proposed railway spur track on Wall avenue from near Twenty-third street to Twenty-fourth street, asked by the Ogden Union Railway & Depot company, the city commissioners made the inspection trip this morning. In the party were Mayor Heywood, Commissioners Flygare and Jones and City Engineer Tracy.

The inspection included not only the strip directly affected by the proposed spur but also the length of Wall avenue as now used by the terminal company. Although the city officials discussed the subject from several angles, no definite action was taken.

Following this inspection, the commissioners made a general tour of the city to secure information as to progress on water main extensions, sewer construction, the storm sewer, sidewalks and paving that is under way. A similar inspection tour in another district of the city is being made this afternoon by the commissioners and city engineer.

MEN FINED IN THE FAMILY ROW CASE

In the case of Ogdens City against F. Dagenhout, P. Rocca and V. Zenola, which was concluded in the municipal court yesterday afternoon, each of the defendants was fined $5 and a suspended sentence of 30 days was imposed. They were the three men who had the family row last Sunday.

Judge Barker roundly lectured the men for engaging in a fight ever since such a trivial thing as a dispute over the pasturing of a calf.

From the statements of City Attorney Sneddon, who has investigated the whole affair, wrangling has been going on between the women of the two families for a long time, and some pretty hard names have been bandied back and forth. In his opinion the women were to blame for the whole matter, with the husbands merely accessories.

Judge Barker said that by giving the suspended sentence of 30 days, he could prevent further fighting.

INVESTIGATING BUTTE LYNCHING

Attorney General and County Attorney to Decide Action in Little Case.

GUARDSMEN ARRIVING
Metal Mine Workers Claim They Know Five of Lynching Party.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 2.—Attorney General Ford and County Attorney Jackson conferred today with a view to determining upon a course of action in respect to the lynching of Frank H. Little, chairman of the general executive board of the I. W. W. national organization, who was hanged by masked men on the outskirts of Butte early yesterday.

The police and sheriff say they are without clues thus far as to the identity of the lynchers. Despite the fact that William Sullivan, counsel for the Metal Mine Workers' union, declares he knows the identity of five of the men, the authorities do not credit his declaration.

Two companies of national guardsmen were in Butte this morning, one having arrived last night from Boreman. The other has been here for some time.

Among Little's personal effects was found an envelope containing ashes. Upon the envelope was the title "Ashes of Joe Hill." It is supposed that the ashes are those from the cremated body of Frank Hillstrom, an I. W. W. executed at the Utah state prison for murder.

come up until the regular session in December.

Plans to reconvene the Democratic caucus and reverse its decision to consider only war legislation were abandoned because it was believed delaying action until the next session will help the prohibition cause.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The fate of the senate resolution providing for a nationwide prohibition amendment to the constitution today rests with the house. If the house approves by a two-thirds vote the new amendment will then go to the states for ratification.

The resolution passed the senate late yesterday by a vote of 65 to 20, eight more than the necessary two-thirds, and today house dry leaders were preparing to press for its prompt consideration there. They claim it will pass.

The only change made in the resolution as originally reported to the senate was the adoption of an amendment providing that the constitutional amendment should be inoperative unless ratified by three-fourths of the states within six years from the date of its submission.

House prohibitionists expressed fear today that owing to the recent decision of the Democratic caucus to consider only war legislation at this session they would be unable to bring the resolution to a vote. Every effort was to be made to convene another caucus to reconsider the decision, but the outlook for favorable action was dark. When declared that only a personal appeal from President Wilson for house action on the resolution would cause the caucus to reverse itself. This was not expected.

FAMOUS KILTIES SEEK RECRUITS IN THE BUSY STREETS OF CHICAGO

Kilties from the Forty-eighth Highlanders, the Scotch Canadian regiment of Toronto, Ontario, which has earned enduring fame for its part in the war, are marching the streets of Chicago this week, as part of the drive for recruits for the Allied armies which has been organized and carried through by Colonel John S. Dennis, commanding the Western Division, British Recruiting Mission, with the cooperation of Captain Franklin R. Kenny, U. S. A., in charge of recruiting for the Chicago district.

Two hundred Highlanders with their regimental band and their pipes parade the streets every day, and the "skirl" of the pipes is heard above the din of the "L" and the traffic cop's whistle. It is only part of the program, however, to stir enthusiasm and bring recruits to the recruiting stations. The Forty-eighth Highlanders have been in the war from the very beginning, going overseas as the Fifteenth Canadian Battalion in the First Division, fighting through St. Julien, Festubert, Courcellette, the Somme, and Vimy Ridge. Since the British Recruiting Mission opened western his pay begins the day he "signs on."
